Former Town Mayor Passed on Last Week

The funeral of the late Mr. Nicholas Samuel Kenny, who quite recently resigned from his position as secretary-treasurer of the Town of Wainwright, was held at the deceased's former home on Fourth Avenue east on Friday afternoon last, when a large number of sympathisers and friends gathered to pay their last respects to one of the oldest settlers in Wainwright. Mr. Kenny's funeral parlors conducted the arrangements, and interment was made at the family plot in Wainwright cemetery. Rev. L. Wilson, of St. Andrew's (Pres.) church was in charge of both services.

The late Mr. Kenny, who was born at Thornbury, Ont., on October 27th, 1869, came to Alberta some 37 years ago, has been a resident of this district almost from its inception. He homesteaded and farmed for years a few miles east of town.

He was married in Clarksburg, Ont., on December 29th, 1897, to Miss Lottie Idle, and from their union two sons (Kenneth and Gordon) were born, and both of them survive. Mrs. Kenny pre-deceased him in October, 1941.

On moving into town, the deceased was the first public school principal, and later was elected mayor of the town. In the early days he took great interest in the Wainwright baseball and hockey teams. Later he studied law under the late H. V. Fieldhouse, K.C., and following that was in law partnership with the firm of Mackenzie and Kenny in town.

Following the death of the late Secretary H. Y. Pawling, he was appointed to the office of Town Secretary-Treasurer, which he has held for a number of years until his resignation a few weeks ago.

Thousands Affected By Labor Transfer Order

OTTAWA, July 2—Labor Minister Mitchell announced Friday issuance of the third compulsory employment transfer order which will make thousands of men—including many in wholesale establishments—available for more essential work after July 15.

The order, like its two predecessors applies to men in age groups subject to call for compulsory military service and, in line with the minister's recent announcement in the House of Commons, to youths of 16, 17 and 18 years of age.

Subject to compulsory transfer to more essential work by National Selective Service under the third transfer order are men in these age groups. The age groups subject to military call-up—and hence subject to the transfer order along with youths of 16, 17 and 18, are set forth by the minister as:

"Every man who was born in any year from 1917 to 1924 and who has reached the age of 19, regardless of whether married or single; and to every man born from 1902 to 1910 who on July 15, 1940, was unmarried, divorced or judicially separated, or was then a widower without children, even if such a man has since married and it also refers to a man who has become a widower since July 15, 1940 and has no children now living; as well as to men who since that date have been divorced or judicially separated."

"Over 24,000 men have been interviewed under the earlier orders, and many of them have already been transferred to higher priority work," said the minister. "The cases of a considerable additional number are still under review."

"From the reports we have received it would appear that compliance has been quite general."

"Men must call personally at an employment and selective service office, unless by reason of distance that is impossible," Mr. Mitchell said. "In the latter case, men may write to the nearest office."

"No employer may continue to engage one of the men covered by the order, in the employment now listed beyond July 15, except under special permit from national selective service."

"Men required to accept alternative employment will be protected in so far as fair minimum earnings are concerned. Also, all men will have the right to appeal to a court of referees should they object to accepting employment to which they may be directed."

He had been failing in health since the death of his wife, and recently became a patient at the hospital in order to recuperate from his sickness but, although the rest was considered to be giving him improvement and convalescence, he wandered away from that institution early last week, and upon a search being made, his body was discovered on Wednesday last in an abandoned well on his farm north of town. Upon being called to the scene, Coroner Dr. Middlemass declared the unfortunate occurrence due to a fit of mental aberration.

Mayor Dr. Middlemass represented the town at the funeral, and Councilors Robinson, Lismore, Alderman, Cork and Stafford, and Mr. Carman Coleman acted as pallbearers.

Sympathies are extended to those who mourn from a very large circle of friends and acquaintances on the passing of one so widely-known a pioneer of the Wainwright district.

Moisture Conditions Improved by Rains

During the past week there has been an improvement of 2% in the general moisture condition of Alberta and Saskatchewan, with the exception of two areas, one directly south of Calgary and the other in the south eastern portion and extending into the south-western portion of Saskatchewan. Both of these areas are badly in need of rainfall. Manitoba has received generous rains, particularly in the Dauphin and Virden districts.

In Alberta the precipitation which occurred from April 1 to June 28, is now 64% of normal, as compared with 62% of last week. In Saskatchewan it is now 76% of normal, as compared with 74% last week. In Manitoba it is now 115% of normal, as compared with 120% last week.

Combining this growing season's precipitation with the rains of last fall for stubble seeded crops, and adding the rains of the previous summer and the fall before that for crops seeded on summerfallow, the moisture condition on the average for Alberta is now 91% of normal, as compared with 91% last week and 101% a year ago.

Cost of Wheat Alcohol Cut in Half

New processes are constantly being developed which will reduce the cost of converting farm crops into industrial materials. An Associated Press dispatch reports development of a new distilling process which went into operation late in June and which it is claimed will cut in two the costs of converting wheat into alcohol to be used for war purposes. It is claimed this will make wheat alcohol as cheap to produce as molasses alcohol. This process will save the United States $50,000,000 annually in war alcohol costs and at the same time will provide one billion pounds of protein feed for livestock and for enriching human foodstuffs. In advocating establishment of a Western Division of the National Research Council, with fully equipped laboratories, the Line Elevator Companies contend that the resultant research will bring about erection of grain alcohol distilleries in Western Canada, new industrial uses and enlarged markets for farm crops, and greater prosperity for the Western farmer.

Magistrate J. Adam was in town from Vermilion last week on official business.

Farewell Arranged Sunday School Pupils

The Explorer Group of the Sunday school gathered at the United church parlors on Sunday evening last to honor Miss S. McNally (their S.S. teacher) who is shortly leaving to join her relatives at Prince George, B.C.

During the evening Miss McNally was presented with a gift of remembrance by her little girl pupils, for which she fittingly expressed her thanks.

WAINWRIGHT & DISTRICT BOARD OF TRADE

Urgent business will be dealt with by the Executive.
By order.

Hold Pre-Nuptial Kitchen Shower

On Monday afternoon, June 28th, the home of Mrs. Geo. Reid was the scene of a happy gathering when a pre-nuptial kitchen shower was arranged to honor Miss Rita Valleau (a bride of last week end). The house was beautifully decorated with Spring flowers.

The highlights of the affair was a "treasure hunt" in which the final clue led the guests through an arch of pink and white to the treasure—a very large 3-tiered wedding cake.

In answering a request that she "cut up the cake" the bride discovered that each "piece" was a gift conveying to the popular young lady sincere good wishes for much happiness during her married life.

Later, a dainty lunch was served by the hostess, and a pleasant time spent socially over the teasups.

Canning Sugar Coupons Expire September 30

Edmonton—All canning sugar coupons are valid until September 30, according to C. G. McKee, regional superintendent of rationing, War-time Prices and Trade Board. In calendar form, the valid dates are: Coupons 1 and 2, valid June 1st, expire September 30.

Coupon 3, valid July 1, expires September 30.
Coupon 4, valid August 1, expires September 30.
Coupon 5, valid September 1, expires September 30.

Special canning sugar must be used for fruit preserving, or for jam and jelly making. No extra sugar is allowed for pickles, officials emphasize.

"As you buy today, so will your power to buy tomorrow be effected," Mrs. Christine White of Ottawa, labour liaison officer and executive assistant to Byrne Sanders, director of the Consumer Branch, War-time Prices and Trade Board, told an Edmonton audience this week.

Mrs. White also stated that necessary and fair as rationing is, it is equally necessary for the public to ration themselves, and to buy only for immediate needs.

Fatality Caused By Runaway Accident

On Friday last while driving from town to his farm, Yee Mah, who has been operating on the former Dolan farm south of town, had the misfortune to have his horse take fright at something unknown, causing the driver to be thrown heavily to the ground. The loaded vehicle passed over the man's chest with the result that he suffered several broken ribs and other injuries. He was later picked up by some members of the armed forces from the park camp and brought to the Wainwright hospital, but despite every possible medical aid, he passed away on Sunday morning.

The deceased, who was 64 years old, came to Canada from Nann Long, Sun Ling Canton, China, 45 years ago, and has been living at several places in Alberta during the past 30 years. He has conducted a truck farm and pigery here for several months.

The funeral was conducted at McLeod's parlors on Monday afternoon, and the Rev. A. D. Richard conducted the service both there and at the Wainwright cemetery.

BIG RODEO AT BATTLE RIVER

Alberta's best riders will take part in the Big Battle River Rodeo on Wednesday, July 21st at the Chauvin Bridge (7 miles south of McLaughlin). A full afternoon of thrilling events starting at 12:00 noon. Over $400 in prizes. Grounds enlarged and grandstand provided. Lots of booths and water. Big bowery dance at night. A grand time! Don't miss it!

Lindberg-Valleau Wedding Saturday

In an early afternoon ceremony Saturday at the United church here, Rev. A. D. Richard solemnized the marriage of Rita Valleau, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Valleau of Greenhills, and Mr. Verne Wallace Bernie Lindberg, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Lindberg of Camrose.

Entering the church on her father's arm to the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white sheer designed with a long torso waistline, bracelet-length sleeves and full skirt. A coronet held her chapel-length veil, and she carried a bouquet of pink roses and carnations. She wore a gold locket, a gift from the groom.

Attending as bridesmaid, Miss Beryl Lindberg, sister of the groom, wore a slipper-length gown of turquoise sheer, fashioned with a square neckline and softly flared skirt, gathered at the waistline in a wide girde effect. She wore a small matching cap and carried a bouquet of spring flowers.

Mr. Jack Perkins was best man. Guest pews were marked with pale blue ribbon. Ushers were Mr. Amos Church and Mr. Allen Dixon. Miss Pauline Dixon played the wedding march, and during the signing of the register Miss Ruth Dalby sang "Because".

More than 50 guests attended the reception held in the I.O.O.F. hall. Mrs. Valleau received in a navy blue printed crepe with a corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother wore a two piece frock of floral silk jersey and a corsage of pink roses.

The bride's table was laid in ivory lace, centred by a three-tiered wedding cake adorned by white tapers, rose peonies and bleeding hearts. Mr. Richard proposed the bridal toast.

The couple left later for a short honeymoon at Calgary. They will later reside near Camrose.

Reject 65,083 From Nearly Quarter Million

OTTAWA, July 2—From a total of 233,911 applicants for enlistment in the period Jan. 1, 1942, to May 31, 1943 there were 65,083 rejected, most of them on medical grounds, the defence department reported yesterday in a common return for P. C. Black (Prog. Com. Cumberland). Of 250,998 who reported for compulsory military training, 41,054 were rejected, the labor department said in the same return.

The Canadian Red Cross is Ready!

Richard Morenus

A familiar radio personality to CBC listeners since taking up residence in Canada, during the past year many of Mr. Morenus' radio plays have been produced from the Winnipeg studios. His most recently produced drama was "Rolling Red-hot" heard in the current Summer Theatre series on Tuesdays at 6:30 p.m. MDT; a series designed to present Western Canada players in Canadian plays.

Extra Rations For Farm Help

Edmonton—When the farmer's wife must provide for 12 extra meals she is entitled to obtain additional rations through application to the Local Ration Board, states C. G. McKee, regional superintendent of rationing, War-time Prices and Trade Board.

She must state for what purpose extra farm help has arrived, how many she must feed, and how long they will remain.

She may need to provide for 12 extra at one sitting or for four extra at three sittings.

MOUNTIES POLICE

WETASKIWIN CITY

WETASKIWIN—The Wetaskiwin city council signed a five-year agreement with the Dominion government to have the R.C.M.P. police the city. Sgt. R. E. Baines will be in charge of a seven-man detachment, and took over his duties Friday. Chief A. T. McIlharney, for 10 years chief in Wetaskiwin, will continue on under the new set-up.

Students Display Now on Exhibit

No doubt many of our readers have viewed with interest the display of workmanship of the Grade IV students of the Public School which is being shown in the Treasury Branch window on Main street.

The workmanship and ingenuity displayed cannot be allowed to pass without recognition and praise for these young enthusiasts in their achievement, which must have taken much patience and study to show with so great detail the various industries and highlights of Alberta.

To their teacher (Mrs. D.C. Hume) and to all the students in the Grade IV room, we say, "Nice work and congratulations!"

$90 Will Kill Axis U-Boat

The new Stamp Sales Plan has the fullest co-operation of the Navy and provides a way to show our sailors we are backing them up.

"We believe that this plan and the promotion behind it will do a great deal to make Canadians realize that in stamping out the U-Boats, we have a terrific job on our hands," wrote one naval officer after checking the plan.

"The Stamp-O-Grams and the Depth Charge Tally Sheets which are part of your plan, and which we will arrange to have delivered to our ships in service, will give our men a real 'lift'."

"When you undertake to supply 15,000 depth charges through War Savings Stamp sales, the people of Canada who buy Stamps can be certain that they are providing us with a vital weapon against the U-Boats. Good luck to you and best wishes for the success of this sales campaign."

The Duty of The Housewife

Housewives have been asked by the War-time Prices and Trade Board to check carefully the prices they pay for commodities. The housewife who shops regularly for her household from three or four stores, may be in a better position to detect an abnormal rise in retail prices than an army of paid investigators.

Housewives are not asked to make the actual investigations. The friendly relationship between consumer and retailer is absolutely necessary for the welfare of both. But for this very reason the authorities must be notified if any direct infringement of the price regulations, either for food-stuffs or rentals, is suspected. Then it is the Board's responsibility to make inquiries and take such action as may be necessary.—Consumers' News.

FEATHERS HAVE ROLE IN WAR

OTTAWA—Military requirements such as sleeping bags, make feathers and down from geese, ducks, chickens and turkeys important. Now no poultry farmer or dealer in feathers who acquires more than 25 pounds of feathers a year may destroy them without permission of A. C. Guthrie, administrator of upholstered metal furniture and bedding.

The Hot Weather Is Here Again

Hot weather days are here, and with them the danger of heat exhaustion and sunstroke, both of which may result from prolonged exposure to sun or intense heat, indoors or out. Aged persons and young infants, particularly, suffer during heat waves and the mortality resulting is chiefly among them. Persons with high blood pressure or diseases of the heart or kidneys are more likely to suffer from such prolonged exposure and heat than those who have good health. It has been found also that the mortality is higher among males than females, possibly due to greater exposure of men in their work.

A factor in heat exhaustion is the loss of salt from the body due to excessive perspiration, and replacement of the salt will do much to keep the body in good condition. Commercially prepared salt tablets are available from drug stores; many industrial plants now make them available for their employees.

In heat exhaustion the patient usually remains conscious but shows pallor, feels cold, while the skin is moist. The respiration is rapid, the pulse weak, and the temperature is below normal. A doctor should be called and the patient should be put in a cool, quiet place, in a reclining position. He should be kept warm by means of a blanket or hot water bottle, and if conscious should be given a stimulant such as tea, coffee, or aromatic spirits of ammonia (one tea spoon in a half-glass of water).

Sunstroke victims suffer from dizziness, sometimes nausea, acute headache, and in true sunstroke these symptoms are followed quickly by unconsciousness. The skin is dry and hot, the face red or purple, breathing difficult, fast pulse, and high temperature. A doctor should be called and the patient should be placed on his back in a cool place. As much clothing as possible should be removed. Temperature should be reduced by sponging the body with cold water. Ice bags or cold cloths, should be applied to the head. Circulation may be induced by rubbing the hands and trunk toward the heart. No stimulants should be given.

HOARDOSIS

Your tins are full of coffee. Your bins with sugar burst. Let others skip on rations. You safely stocked up first! With shiftless people's larders. As bare as Mother Hubbard's. What came and jars and bottles. Weigh down your crowded cupboards! And we hope you have ants in your pantry, lady. And go to some place neither cool nor shady.

IN MOTHBALLS!

Firms that stop advertising are taking a backward step!

They may think they have stopped advertising; but they haven't—the cessation itself advertises for them the fact they have fear that they lack faith in the future.

They are putting the number of important assets away in mothballs for the duration—the goodwill they have built up, the prestige born of advertising, public remembrance, consumer familiarity with their advertising. It isn't constructive. It isn't progressive. It isn't merely a doubtful procedure—it's dangerous!—Printer & Publisher.

KING GEORGE

WIDELY TRAVELLED

His Majesty King George VI has returned home from his momentous visit to North Africa and Malta. The London Times recalls that not since the Earl of Chester, afterward King Edward I, marshalled his armies in Tunis for the last Crusade has an English prince met his troops on African soil.

It is not the first time that the present King has visited his fighting men on foreign soil since the outbreak of the present war. Early in the war he crossed to France and inspected the British armies there. But the recent journey to Africa was attended by much greater hazard over a far greater distance covered both ways by air. Of the stimulating effects of the journey on the fighting morale of the Allied armies poised on the southern shore of the Mediterranean there can be no doubt.

In the Great War His Majesty was attached first to the navy and then to the air force, and he was present at the Battle of Jutland on H.M.S. Collingwood. In the concluding months of the war he was stationed with the Royal Air Force in France and Belgium.

The King is a traveller of note and has visited many parts of the Empire before the Great War, as a naval cadet, he visited Halifax and Charlottetown. In 1923 he and Queen Elizabeth made a lengthy trip through Africa, which included Egypt, Uganda, Kenya, the Sudan and East Africa. In 1927 they made a long tour of Australia and New Zealand, and just before the present war they toured this Dominion from coast to coast, and also visited Washington and New York—Calgary Herald.

YOUR TOWN PAPER

The country paper is getting better and better as time goes on. The number grows less but the quality improves.

Once it seemed that changes in the means of transportation might tend to destroy the local papers but the average man wants to know what happens round home as well as what is going on in Europe and Asia.

Town and country people see things more clearly than do city folk. They are closer to realities; the atmosphere is less disturbing. In cities we do things in the same old way.

but in the country there are always means for infinite improvement.

The farmer works with living things. Why did Jones have the best potatoes at the fall fair? There must be a reason. Jones should tell how he did it. Why does Sam Parks always get "Select" grade for his bacon hogs? It's not pure luck. The editor might talk it over with Sam. Who saw the first robin? Can any boy or girl tell us how it manages to find its way back to the same nest each year? There are miracles in the country—real things happen—the people ought to write about them.

There are improvements in farm methods from year to year. The farmer should let his neighbor know how he does things.

The town weeklies might well contain more discussions, by their own readers, on questions of national importance. This does not imply political questions—politics warps judgment, but issues can be discussed on their merits. The town paper is a real institution. It should have more help from the community. The success of the country paper depends on the interest of its subscribers.

A FLAG

FOR CANADA

A commentator has said recently that if Canada isn't going to make a move herself to have a flag, other countries are likely to provide her with one. That, of course, will be the red ensign, which is not a national flag but seems to be the only distinct emblem which Canada waves. Other nations, wishing to honor Canada as an independent part of the British Commonwealth in any assembly of flags of United Nations, must resort to the red ensign, which is marine insignia. Otherwise Canada would not appear at all. She would be merely lumped under the Union Jack like the least pretentious colonial possession of the British Isles.

If foreign countries give any thought to this singular lack of any fitting national emblem, they must wonder at Canadian indifference and lack of national feeling. But it is not entirely the fault of the Canadian people who have actually been urging a Canadian flag for over twenty years. Perhaps they did not urge with sufficient volume and intensity. At any rate all clamorings were skillfully smothered at Ottawa. Opponents raised the false and ancient bugaboo of disloyalty to England—as if England cared.

In not demanding a Canadian flag and not forcing it as a real issue we have been lacking in virile, vigorous loyalty to our own country, the country which has given us our livelihood, which we have helped to create, and for whose future we are all responsible. Canada has had a record in peace and war which is a credit to any nation of comparative youth and population. Since we are without any other emblem we, who are real Canadians, thrill to the red ensign as we cannot thrill to the Union Jack, the Stars and Stripes or any other flag, it is tied in with our lives, representing to us what we love and cherish in our own home land.

It is a common reproach that flags are lamentably lacking at Canadian celebrations. Isn't the reason quite obvious? July 1st is a holiday peculiarly our own, a day which commemorates the birth of the Dominion. But no flags marking that birthday will be flown; nothing to indicate the growth of our land since the day of Confederation.

While the red ensign is all we can produce at present, it probably could be improved upon as an emblem of Canada. The Union Jack in the field is an essential feature of a flag representing any part of the British Commonwealth. The Canadian coat-of-arms on the shield as approved in 1921, shows the countries where people of Canada mainly come from, namely Canada, Scotland, Ireland and France. The maple leaves at the base of the shield are all that actually says Canada.

Perhaps a shield more significant to Canadian pursuits and common interests would be more truly national than racial emphasis of any nature. We are a people of many nationalities, now unhyphenated Canadians.

It might be a good plan to carry that idea on our national flag—when we get it.

Other flags do not find it necessary to emphasize racial descent. Australia for example carries the Union Jack in the field, and the emblem of Australia in the fly. The seven-pointed star represents the six states and the Northern Territory. The five-pointed stars are emblematic of the Southern Cross. New Zealand carries the Union Jack, and the constellation represents the Southern Cross, emblem of New Zealand, symbolizing a new nation on the world's horizon. The flag of the Union of South Africa was officially adopted in 1927. Its colors represent the states of the Union. The Union Jack, the flag of the former Orange Free State and the Transvaal Vierkleur are assembled to show the union of independent republics. India carries the Union Jack and the Jewelled Star of India.—Exchange.

Ways to Stretch Your Canning Sugar

The burning question of the day is how to can 35 to 40 quarts of fruit for each member of the family with 10 lbs. of sugar and still have a little for jam or jelly. Thirty-five to forty quarts of fruit per person may seem a lot, but if you are following Canada's Official Food Rules you will use this much and more.

The following suggestions are made by Miss Vera Richards, of the Department of Agriculture Extension Service.

1. With a syrup of $\frac{1}{4}$ cup sugar to 1 cup water (a little better than a thin syrup) you will have sufficient syrup for 1 quart of large fruit. This would preserve 26 $\frac{2}{3}$ quarts of fruit with 10 lbs. of sugar. But small fruit requires less syrup and $\frac{1}{2}$ cup sugar to $\frac{1}{2}$ cups water would give us sufficient syrup for 1 quart of small fruit. With this syrup we could preserve 40 quarts of small fruit. Hence we can expect to preserve at least 30 quarts of small fruit with our 10 lbs. of sugar. However, when sugar was a big item on our fall budget, many found a thin syrup of 1 cup of sugar to 3 cups water quite satisfactory.

and with this syrup at least 60 quarts of fruit could be preserved.

2. Sugar is not necessary for the actual preservation of canned fruits. It is perfect processing and perfect sealing that counts. Fruits may be canned without sugar, preferably in their own juices—if the fruit is not of the juicy type, water is used. This fruit of course will require some sweetening when served—but some sugar may be salvaged from your ration, or honey or syrup used. If these are not available then you may feel justified in using saccharine for sweetening. Although it is about 300 times sweeter than sugar it is a somewhat more expensive sweetening. It has no food value and should not be used if sugar or honey is available. Do not cook a product with saccharine in it as a very bitter flavor will result.

3. Fruit may be canned with honey. Rural people who have their own honey should certainly plan to use some for canning. Honey intensifies the flavour of fruit and some prefer a syrup of half honey and half sugar. Jams, jellies and pickles are especially good made with honey. Send for the leaflet with directions for canning with honey.

4. An economical way to use canning sugar is to add a small amount directly to the fruit. The fruit does not look quite as attractive as syrup method products but for those to whom flavour is important this may be preferable to a thin sugar and water syrup.

5. Can Fruit Salad, combining some of the sweeter fruits with the more sour fruits.

6. Rather than make thick jam and jelly—prepare the fruit as a syrup using less sugar and not cooking quite as long. This saves sugar and gives a larger quantity—use for pancakes, waffles, muffins, etc.

Note: More fruit may be preserved and more of the food value preserved if fruit and sugar are used for canning rather than for jam and jelly.

For information on canning, write to Extension Service, Department of Agriculture, Edmonton.

These banks are constituted under the Bank Act—an act of the Parliament of Canada.

They compete with each other for your business. This makes for fair and efficient operation and for quality of service. Enterprises and individuals may go to any or all of them to deposit money, obtain loans and transact any other banking business.

Security and privacy are two fundamentals which the Canadian people have always demanded of their banks. They maintain more than 4,350,000 deposit accounts, knowing that their money is available when they want it. In thousands of daily contacts with bank managers and staffs, they know that their private affairs will be held strictly confidential.

In every sense of the word, the banks are servants of the people. Lord Macmillan wrote in the Royal Commission report of 1933: "The mechanism of finance is a delicate one; the confidence upon which it is based is a slow growth, but it may be destroyed overnight, and those to whom is entrusted responsibility for the welfare of the people must proceed with caution in the adoption of changes."

FARM NOTES

CULL POULTRY NOW

It is common practice among owners of small or relatively small, poultry flocks to cull fairly effectively once per year, usually in the autumn at the time pullets are being placed in laying quarters. While culling at that time is to be commended the owner should not lose sight of the fact that considerable culling should be done at other seasons, if the flock is to be maintained at peak efficiency, says B. F. Tinney, Dominion Experimental Farm, Charlottetown, P.E.I. The summer season is not the time to harbour the low producer. Cost of feed is a major item in cost of production and the production level must be fairly high or feed-costs will not be met. At the same time, there is quite often a very ready market for fowl of good quality in that period just prior to marketing the new crop of broilers and roasters.

In many sections, hotels and summer colonies catering to a tourist clientele, offer a good market for such surplus stock and the farmer should certainly make an effort to profit by this market.

The work entailed in rearing young stock for replacements has also added additional burdens at this season of the year. It is recommended that the flock be culled closely and every individual bird be removed that gives evidence of being unprofitable.

ALFALFA VALUABLE SOURCE OF PROTEIN

Known botanically as medicago sativa, to some as lucerne, but to most by its Spanish name of alfalfa, the plant was brought from its native habitat in southwestern Asia and introduced into Mexico and South America by the Spaniards before the days of the Armada. It is said to have been brought from Chile to Call ifornia in 1854, whence it spread rapidly over the western States and became the chief forage crop there as it has since in many parts of Canada.

Alfalfa won early favour because of its prolific growth and by its remarkable resistance to drought, due to the deeply penetrating tap root and consequent ability of the plant to draw moisture and nurture from the lower soil layers. Alfalfa is a legume and, in common with other clovers, beans and peas, possesses the faculty of absorbing nitrogen from the soil atmosphere by the aid of its root nodule bacteria.

Alfalfa assumes now a position of greater importance than ever before, because in protein content it is nearly on a par with wheat bran, and there is at present an alarming scarcity of protein supplements needed so urgently in the feeding of cattle, pigs and poultry whose produce in the forms of cheese, bacon sides and egg powder are required to meet our commitments to Britain and the demands of the domestic market.

Alfalfa is not only a source of protein but also of the essential vitamin A, commonly referred to as the growth vitamin. Cattle which consume large amounts of roughage obtain usually all the vitamin A they need, but it is otherwise with pigs and poultry whose diet is largely of grain. For these alfalfa meal is a valuable supplement to the grain ration.

Provided with favourable climatic conditions, alfalfa will thrive on almost any kind of soil that has good drainage and low water table but is sensitive to acidity. Consequently, the soil reaction should be not less than 6 pH. Otherwise, applications of lime in some form are necessary for the correction of acidity before the crop can be grown successfully. Alfalfa responds to fertilizers high in phosphate and potash, which may be applied in fall. For the heavier soils 0-14-7 is recommended at not less than 200 lbs. per acre; for the lighter 0-12-10 may be substituted, if obtainable. Where "yellow top" has been noticed, it is advisable to mix with the fertilizer 30 lbs. of borax per acre.

Since the digestibility of the protein diminishes as the crop approaches full maturity, alfalfa should be cut when the first blooms appear. Some say when ten percent of the crop is in flower; but if one waits until then, the whole field may be in full bloom before harvesting has progressed very far. Besides, early cutting improves the prospects for the second crop.

World of Wheat

Director, Research Department,
Searle Grain Company, Ltd.

CANADA APPROVED FLOUR AND BREAD

News has just come from Great Britain that British Ministry of Food after exhaustive tests have found that "Canada Approved" Vitamin B1 bread is classed, all things considered, as a better bread than either the present wheat bread of Britain or the loaf of the United States now reinforced artificially with Vitamin B1.

The International Food Conference which recently met at Hot Springs confirmed this commendation by unanimously recommending that processes should be used in making flour that would retain the natural vitamins contained in wheat, rye and maize. The Conference drew attention to "Canada Approved" bread and flour now made by this desirable process.

This is all a splendid tribute to the fine work done by our Canadian scientists, and particularly to the work of the Laboratory of the Cereal Division of the Experimental Farms at Ottawa where, under the direction of Dr. L. H. Newman, the Dominion Cerealist, the process of milling flour to preserve a great deal of the precious Vitamin B1 contained in the wheat kernel was originated.

Incidentally the housewives of our farms, villages, towns and cities are strongly advised to insist on obtaining "Canada Approved" flour and bread. It will tend to improve the health of all members of their families.

ITEMS OF INTEREST IN THE WORLD OF FOODSTUFFS

The U.S. War Food Administrator has stated that about 6% of the nation's total food production was exported for lend lease in 1942, and that this year it would amount to 11 or 12 percent. Chile plans to buy 50,000 tons of wheat from Australia and Argentina this year.

The first official estimate of Egyptian wheat and barley acreage indicates a larger acreage than for any year on record. The Argentine wheat surplus was estimated recently at 254,263,000 bushels as compared with 195,575,000 bushels a year ago. Crop conditions in the United Kingdom are favorable and with a record wheat acreage reported, the crop promises to be the largest ever harvested.

UNIVERSITIES JOIN GIVING ARMY COURSES

The 33-week Canadian Army Course to be given at 12 Canadian Universities, starting in September, is no "snap course", according to members of the class of 140 young soldiers who recently completed the initial course at the University of Toronto. But they add that anyone eligible would be foolish not to take the course.

Boys between the ages of 17 and 22, both high school students and members of the Active Army, with matriculation qualifications and "A" medical categories, are eligible to take the course without cost to themselves. In addition, they receive Army pay and uniforms.

Major C. M. Howarth, E.D., officer commanding the first course, said the second course would not be as difficult as the first, which was largely experimental; some of the original plans have been altered and new ones adopted.

Students selected for the second course must enlist in the Army before Aug. 1st, and they will be given as much basic training as possible between the time they join and the commencement of the course at the university at which they are enrolled. This will give them a better idea of Army life than the first class had, for most members of the first group came right out of civilian life.

The Army training will give the new students a better idea of the various branches of the service, so they will have a better idea of which branch they wish to join.

Universities participating in the course are: Acadia, Wolfville, N.S.; Mount Allison, Sackville, N.B.; McGill and Montreal, Montreal; Ottawa, Ottawa; McMaster, Hamilton; Western Ontario, London; Toronto, Toronto; Saskatchewan, Saskatchewan; Alberta, Edmonton and British Columbia, Vancouver.

A HEALTH SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN MEDICAL

With medical urging and informed public opinion behind it, the drive for compulsory milk pasteurization in the Province of Quebec has made such headway that introduction of legislation by Premier Adélard Godbout's Government is considered in many quarters to be a certainty.

Some 45 influential organizations, including not only medical, public health and nursing bodies, but religious, educational and commercial institutions, service clubs and business firms have sent petitions to the Godbout Government asking for the legislation.

It is believed that any popular poll would show wide public support for the measure, and an indication of this was seen in Outremont, suburb of Montreal, where pasteurization became a municipal election issue. Joseph Beaudin, 78 years old, re-elected mayor of Outremont for a 34th term was opposed by a candidate immediate response from Premier Godbout, who not only pointed to the Province's 1941 venereal disease control legislation—as good as any in Canada—but took pride in appreciable reduction in the incidence of communicable disease generally.

Opposition to pasteurization in Quebec has come chiefly from cranks and the uninformed, of whom there are a number in every Province.

The medical evidence that milk loses none of its nutritive value is complete and overwhelming. However, Le Devoir, Montreal newspaper, has made itself champion of the opposition admittedly in the minority. It holds that pasteurized milk is as susceptible to contamination as raw milk and also advances the old fallacious argument that raw milk has advantages over the other. The answer to Le Devoir's statement is, of course, that any food can be contaminated after having been hygienically produced or sterilized. The answer lies in sanitary handling methods.

If Le Devoir's argument was good, it would be useless to sterilize surgical instruments, as they could be contaminated again before use.

Le Canada, also of Montreal, has taken the sound position of pointing to well known statistics available from other countries as well as Canada, showing that pasteurization has effectively reduced infant mortality and the incidence of all milk-borne disease.

In fact, the opposition has no argument at all. Pasteurized milk is a safe, healthy food, necessary to the good nutrition of children and adults. As a raw product it has killed and crippled uncounted thousands of children.

Pasteurization of milk is endorsed and urged by the Canadian Medical Association; Canadian Public Health Association; British Medical Association; American Medical Association; American Public Health Association; League of Nations Health Committee who did not believe in pasteurization. The defeated candidate obtained a majority (of three votes) in only one of the 38 polls.

Stricter law enforcement to deal with the disorderly house situation was asked by a conference of 75 civic heads recently held under auspices of the Windsor Board of Health. Dr. John Howie, medical officer of health was chairman, and the meeting was representative of military, industrial, educational, social welfare, religious and health organizations.

Purpose of the meeting was discussion of wartime health hazards, the war against tuberculosis, problems connected with juvenile delinquency, and control of venereal disease, the chief topic.

"That members of the judiciary, Crown prosecutors and police departments be informed regarding the serious threat of disorderly houses to the war effort."

"That the use of maximum fines for inmates, both male and female, be adopted."

"That the Provincial Department of Education be requested to thoroughly examine the question of sex education in the schools and that films and other educational material be made available free of charge."

A third resolution proposed that the Ontario birth certificate form be changed to include the question: "Was the mother's sero-diagnostic test for syphilis performed before the fifth month?"

One of the most interesting disclosures at the conference was by an industrial physician who told of routine blood tests made at his company's plant. In 2,000 consecutive blood tests, made without regard to selection, 11 cases of syphilis, or slightly over one-half of one per cent, were found at the plant. Not one unmarried person had a positive test. The 11 cases were found among married, separated or divorced individuals, or those whose home had, for some other reason, been broken up.

The R.A.F.'s Super-Speed "Mosquito" Reconnaissance Bomber

The "MOSQUITO" twin-engine R.A.F. reconnaissance bomber, one of the fastest aircraft of its type, has carried the daylight air war to Germany. Making long-range attacks without fighter escort, it can outdistance enemy interceptor fighters. Of simple wooden construction, it has two Rolls-Royce engines. Its offensive armament may consist of four 20 mm. cannon and four .303 machine guns. Undercarriage and tail wheel units are retractable. It has the de Havilland three bladed hydromatic type propeller. Dimensions: Span 54' 2". Length (overall) 40' 9 1/2". Height 15' 3". THE RETURN HOME

After many false reports of dates of departure for Canada, we were finally given fairly definite word that we would start home on Friday, October 2nd. We had returned from the West part of England the previous Sunday, and had spent the intervening days in final conferences, last minute visits to famous places in London, and preparations for the journey. These preparations included having our notes officially sealed so that we would have no trouble in taking them through the ports of embarkation and arrival.

On the last Thursday, I paid a final visit to St. Paul's Cathedral and gazed on the expanse of ruins which surrounds this shrine.

In the afternoon, I went to see "The Belle of New York" at the Coliseum Theatre, one of the most beautiful theatres I have ever seen. Walking back to the Strand Palace Hotel, where we stayed the last few days in London, I found the Strand crowded with people, the first time I had seen any streets really crowded in England.

A fruit store near the hotel, I noted, was selling peaches for 8 shillings each, and grapes for 16 shillings a pound.

Friday morning we started on a trip during which we were destined to use many forms of transportation. First an automobile took us to the station. Then we travelled on a train, the most luxurious one we had seen in England, to a port of embarkation. At the railway station, a bus was waiting for us, in which we went to the Airways office.

Here our baggage was weighed, our tickets and passports checked, and a light lunch served, after which we got into a launch which took us out to a British Overseas Airways Flying boat. When we finally took off, this flying boat was carrying sixty-nine passengers, all their baggage, and the crew of eleven.

A few hours later, this huge artificial bird with its heavy load came down at a transfer point, settling so gently that few of us knew just when we touched the water. This place was in Eire and again our passports were checked. We were only there long enough to send off a few postcards. Then once more we got into a launch which took us to a Sikorsky American Export Ace. It took in all the members of the Bomber Press and a few other passengers.

The return journey was considerably slower, but very much more comfortable than the trip over in a bomber. The hostess, Miss Dorothy Buchanan, looking very smart in her attractive uniform, started passing around American cigarettes, (you can smoke cigarettes but not cigars or a pipe in an Ace, but smoking was forbidden in the bomber), chewing gum, and the latest American magazines. Later a hot dinner was served, and soon after the hostess and steward started making up the berths which were very much like those in a Pullman.

Early the next morning the flying boat came down in Canadian waters. There was a strong wind and very rough water so that the launch took off our party with some difficulty.

Before we left the transfer point the previous evening, we watched a Pan-American Clipper take off. We arrived in Canadian waters in time to see the same Clipper come down beside us. For a trip of about two thousand miles over the Atlantic, the two rival planes were only a few minutes apart.

After passing our baggage through the customs, we took taxis to the rail way station for the last leg of our journey to our homes. The first thing most of us bought were some oranges, which we had not seen for nearly seven weeks.

In a few hours we had again been transported across the ocean from one continent to another and what a contrast we found. If Canada was not the Promised Land, it was at least flowing with milk, sugar, butter, eggs, matches, soap, and nearly everything that we had been learning to do without.

And the lights! How strange to see lights at every little hamlet and town the train passed through! Probably the most depressing thing in Britain is the blackout; here were brilliant lights in the train and in all the towns. They made the war seem so very far away, almost as if this country were not in it. And those were not the only things that gave an impression almost of unconcern about the war. The stores were well-stocked and crowded with buyers. Everywhere we missed that feeling of intense determination.

We found that Canadians were greatly interested in everything over there. We all spent a very busy time answering questions, giving talks, writing articles, and generally trying to bring home the picture of things as we found them.

If we have been able to show parents that their sons and daughters overseas are well taken care of, that they are active and enthusiastic; if we have inspired workers to greater efforts; if we have made others anxious to practice self-denial as an aid to victory; if we have helped to reassure Canadians as to the fighting fitness of their forces; if we have created a greater desire to buy more Victory Bonds to provide the needed sinews of war, the work of the Bomber Press will have been worth while.

Just a few closing words of thanks to all the officers and officials who helped to make our travels so agreeable, and who spared no effort to meet our slightest wish to see any special activity; also to the editors and readers who have written expressing their appreciation of the effort to tell them what is going on in Britain.

And so we leave our Canadian friends and others in Britain, with a feeling of confidence that when the time comes, they will acquit themselves with glory. As General McNaughton told us at our last conference with him, "They are holding the outposts in the defence of Canada."

In Lincoln Cathedral, there is a chapel dedicated to the heroes of former wars, and under some old battle-scarred flags, held together with netting, I found these words on the wall.

"A moth-eaten rag, on a worm-eaten pole, It does not seem likely to stir a man's soul;

'Tis the deeds that were done, 'neath that moth-eaten rag, When the pole was a staff, and the rag was a flag."

Household Hints

FOR GRADUATION DAY SNACKS
Here are a few sandwich suggestions that are well worth keeping in mind when preparing a little snack for relatives and friends—following your children's graduation:

Peanut Butter, Fig and Raisin Sandwiches

1/2 cup figs
1/2 cup raisins
2 tablespoons light corn syrup
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup peanut butter
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Wash figs and raisins and put through a food chopper. Add salt, peanut butter, lemon juice and corn syrup, and mix well. Use between thin, buttered slices of bread.

Chicken, Ham and Celery Sandwiches

1 cup cooked chicken meat
1/2 cup celery
1 tablespoon green pepper
1/2 cup mayonnaise
1/2 cup cooked ham
Mix the chicken, ham, celery and green peppers. Mix with the mayonnaise and spread on buttered bread.

Liver and Bacon Sandwiches

1/2 cup chopped bacon
1/2 cup cream
1/2 cup mashed liver
Salt and pepper

Mix chopped bacon and mashed liver, season with pepper and salt and mix with cream. Spread between slices of buttered bread. Decorate the plate with a border of lemon slices and hard-cooked eggs cut into halves lengthwise, with a sprig of cress or parsley on each half egg.

SAVE YOUR SCRAP RUBBER

ESTIMATED COST 55¢

2 cups flour
4 tsp. Magic Baking Powder
1/2 tsp. salt
4 tbs. shortening
1 egg
1/2 cup milk
1 1/2 cups minced leftover chicken
4 tbs. milk
2 tsp. finely chopped onions
2 tbs. chopped parsley

Sift first 3 ingredients, mix in shortening. Beat egg in measuring cup, add milk to make 1/2 cup, add to first mixture. Roll out 1/4 inch thick. Mix remaining ingredients, spread on dough. Roll up like jelly roll and bake in hot oven (425° F.) 30 minutes. Serve with leftover chicken gravy.

Record Rail Shipment

The largest single unit freight shipment ever carried over the Canadian National Railways, and exceeding any known previous record established by lines on this Continent, is now on the System double track main line travelling from Lachine to the Government synthetic rubber plant at Sarnia, Ontario, moving on a five-day schedule for a distance which fast freights traverse in the hours from near midnight to just past noon. Manufactured by the Dominion Bridge Company, this huge tank, technically known as a "B.B. Extractor," is a war job for a synthetic rubber plant. It weighs 150 tons; is more than 165 feet long, 12 1/2 feet wide and 16-2/3 feet above the top of the track rail. At the company's Lachine plant this record load was placed on three flat cars, the middle one being an "idler." It was a big job in load-in and after that the Canadian National engineering and operating forces had to deal with problems of getting the load on to the main line. Because of its length and projections the tank is being moved only during daylight and then at a restricted speed of fifteen miles an hour. At curves, extra precaution must be taken so that the front end will not shear off switch targets or signal posts. The special train making this movement carries a squad of seven Canadian National men who are physically and mechanically prepared to deal with any problem which may develop while en route.—Canadian National Railway photograph.

I light your lamps, wash and iron your clothes, clean your rugs, cook your meals, operate your radio and refrigerator, and do a score of other jobs to save you time and drudgery.

There's a lot of work I'm doing for other people too—for your neighbors, for Canada's War Industries—but I've got plenty of pep and energy for all your needs.

My address is any Electric Outlet. So just flip a switch . . . any hour, day or night . . . and I'll be right on the job ready to do your bidding instantly—just as I've been doing it for years.

Dr. K. W. Neathy
 Director, Agricultural Department
 North-West Line Elevators Association

The Country Fair
 The wisdom of continuing agricultural exhibitions in wartime cannot be questioned so long as proper emphasis is placed on agricultural matters.

For several years, the exhibit of The North-West Line Elevators Association has been among the most popular features at B class fairs. We estimated that, in 1942, it attracted the attention of about 50,000 persons. It has always combined useful information with attractive appearance, and this year is no exception.

Food rationing has brought home to all of us the importance of agriculture in this war. Inefficiency in farm operations now means not only loss to the farmer, but it actually hinders progress in defeating our enemies. This has been kept in mind in designing the exhibit.

Through the generous co-operation of the Entomological Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, the exhibit includes a very interesting display concerned with warble flies. Specimens of damaged leather, figures on actual losses and control methods are included, and a new bulletin will be distributed.

The central part of the exhibit portrays the movement of food from the farm to the fighting forces, and one wing is devoted to emergency rations used in the army, navy and air force. Other features are weeds, soil erosion and 'sound' moving pictures.

We hope to welcome our readers at Swift Current (frontier celebration), Calgary, Regina, Yorkton, Melfort, Lloydminster, Vermilion, Vegreville, Red Deer, North Battleford and Prince Albert.

"Jerry's getting 'ell to-night"

THE WATCHERS on the cliffs cheer their going and coming as—night after night—R.C.A.F. bombers deliver shattering blows.

Canadian attack teams are famous for their skill and daring. As raw recruits, they entered R.C.A.F. Training Schools. They emerged within a few happy and exciting months as trained specialists—clear-eyed and competent.

Every member of a bomber crew is an expert at his own job, yet at the same time part of a closely-knit, smooth-working team. Happily, too, the air training and technical knowledge possessed by these fighting comrades of the skies will open up golden opportunities to them later in civil life.

More men than ever are needed for Aircrew... join now! Apply at nearest R.C.A.F. Recruiting Centre.
